Introduction

National Service Scheme (NSS) special camp conducted by the NSS unit of KCT's Late G. N. Sapkal College of Engineering at Village Kachurli, in Trimbakeshwar Taluka. During this camp, NSS volunteers organized and executed a unique project involving wall paintings for awareness in the village. The wall paintings focused on various subjects, including tree planting and conservation, water conservation, female foeticide, and Swachh Bharat.

Objective:

The primary objective of the wall painting activity during the NSS special camp was to raise awareness and impart important messages to the community in an engaging and visually impactful manner. Through the use of art, our goal was to address key issues and inspire positive action among the villagers.

Activities Undertaken:

1. Theme Selection: NSS volunteers conducted discussions with the local community and identified key themes for the wall paintings. The selected themes included planting and saving trees, conserving water, addressing female foeticide, and promoting the Swachh Bharat (Clean India) initiative.
2. Design and Planning: The volunteers collaborated with local artists to design the wall paintings. Detailed plans and sketches were created to ensure that the messages were conveyed effectively.
3. Materials and Resources: The necessary painting materials, including paints, brushes, scaffolding, and safety equipment, were procured. The local community also provided support and assistance.
4. Community Engagement: The villagers of Kachurli actively participated in the project, offering their walls as canvases and assisting with the preparation of surfaces for painting.
5. Execution: NSS volunteers, along with local artists, executed the wall paintings. Each theme was allocated a specific location within the village to maximize visibility.
6. Awareness Campaign: Simultaneously, volunteers conducted awareness campaigns to inform villagers about the significance of each theme and the importance of taking action.

7. Interactive Sessions: Periodic interactive sessions were held with the local community to discuss the messages conveyed by the wall paintings and encourage active involvement in the related causes.

Outcomes:

The wall painting activity during the NSS special camp in Kachurli Village yielded several positive outcomes:

- 1. Awareness: The colourful and visually striking wall paintings effectively raised awareness about crucial subjects such as tree planting, water conservation, female foeticide, and cleanliness.
